

Semaphore Flags

These are hand-held signals that were used to send messages during the First World War. By holding one flag in each hand, and positioning the arms in specific positions, the signaller indicated a letter or number.

Reproduction